Uniting Church Weekly Prayer

Thank you dear God that you have made me to know peace and to make peace.
You are all that is just and kind and I see only partially — give me the wisdom to stand up for justice with the strength to turn the other cheek, let me see where the real struggle lies, and that the real battle is already won,
guide me more and more each day to live in peace with everyone,
to forgive and forgive and forgive.
In Jesus' name
Amen

Rebecca Riggs, Communications Manager, Queensland Synod

If you know someone, or a situation needs our prayers could you email Jan S to put requests in the Herald so we can pray for you, or even contact you to cheer you up?

During the Covid lockdown last year the Herald stopped advertising the Thursday morning 8 am Fellowship of Fixing. A number of our very committed workers have kept this going, but it is now time to advertise it again. We are always glad to have workers. If you turn up and aren't sure what you could do, just ask someone, and you will be happily given a task. Thankyou to our unsung heroes who turn up each week, so we can enjoy church on Sundays.

Birthdays this week: Judith Judd (12th)

Wedding Anniversary: Evan and Trish Hair 5th anniversary (15th)

We have one more fellowship morning tea, this Thursday (14th) before our Christmas fellowship celebration (Thursday 11th Nov -Remembrance Day). Unless lots of us request a morning tea instead, we will have our usual luncheon. And unless lots of us object to having it at the Waterfront again, that's where we'll celebrate. Please email or verbally notify Jan S. before 28th October, if you are interested in attending.

Please contact Jess if you find any rings on the church property.

Also our Christmas Day service will be on a Saturday, and we won't be having a service on Sunday 26th December.

Rev Andrew Gunton has just celebrated his first anniversary as Moderator. He acknowledged the opportunity to be the spiritual head of the Queensland Synod for the next three years was a tremendous opportunity to make positive change and reconnect the church with communities.

"By doing that, we will discover what people in our communities are genuinely concerned about and then identify ways in which the Uniting Church can make a positive difference," said Andrew. "We have tremendous reach, not only through our congregations but through agencies like UnitingCare Queensland and Wesley Mission Queensland as well as our hospitals, aged-care facilities, schools and early learning services. By working together across the whole Uniting Church network, we will be able to tangibly impact communities across Queensland.
