

Cooper is digging holes in the backyard again. We agreed if you got this dog you were responsible for his training!

Dad, I'm so sorry! How bad is it??

I'll call it a smartphone the day I yell "Where's my phone?!" and it yells "Down here! In the couch cushions!"

From “Morning by Morning” by Charles Spurgeon- July 18

They will set out last, under their standards.
(Numbers 2:31)

The camp of Dan brought up the rear when the armies of Israel were on the march. The Danites occupied the last place but they were as much part of the host as were the foremost tribes. They followed the same fiery pillar, ate the same manna, drank from the same spiritual rock, and journeyed to the same inheritance. Cheer up my heart, though last and least it's your privilege to be in the army, and to fare as those fare who lead. Some one must be last in honour and esteem, some one must do menial work for Jesus, and why not me? Danites occupy a very useful place. Stragglers have to be picked up during the march, and lost property has to be gathered from the field. Fiery spirits may dash forward over untrodden paths to learn fresh truth, and may win more souls to Jesus, but those of a more conservative spirit are often used to remind the Church of her ancient faith and restore her fainting sons and daughters. Every position has its duties, and the slower moving children of God will find their peculiar state one in which they may eminently bless the whole host. The rear guard is a place of danger. There are foes behind us as well as before us. Attacks come from all directions. Amalek fell upon Israel and slew all those who were lagging behind. Weary Christians must not be left unaided, and therefore it's the duty of experienced saints to bear their standards among the last. My soul, tenderly watch to help today those who are last.

These sentences actually appeared in church bulletins or were announced at church services:

- Don't let worry kill you off - let the Church help.

- Miss Charlene Mason sang 'I will not pass this way again', giving obvious pleasure to the congregation.

- For those of you who have children and don't know it, we have a nursery downstairs.

- Next Thursday there will be tryouts for the choir. They need all the help they can get.

- Irving Benson and Jessie Carter were married on October 24 in the church. So ends a friendship that began in their school days.

- A bean supper will be held on Tuesday evening in the church hall. Music will follow.
